GANZ IP: New NVR-Models

Dusseldorf – Two new networkrecorders offer more functionality

With the NR8H and the NR16H, CBC extends the product range of the network recorder. The eight-channel as well as the 16-channel device can record at up to 25 frames per second in full-HD. This onto the maximum of five internal hard drives, allowing sufficient space available. Optional the hard drive can operate in RAID5 arrays. This provides a significantly improved data security.

Like the two other models (NR4HL and NR8HL), the installation is simple because the recorders independently configure connected cameras from the whole IP PixelPro series and integrate them into the system.

Via mouse and connected monitor, either via HDMI or VGA, all the settings of the recorder can be adjusted, as well as camera settings. Remote access is also possible. This is done via Internet Explorer or the free VMS. With the latter, the connection with multiple recorders is simultaneously possible. In addition, apps for popular smartphones are downloadable. Plus, CBC will open the recorder for cameras from third-party providers that support the standard ONVIF 2.0.1.

A compatibility tool gives information about the camera systems tested by CBC and its partners.
